Books Recommendations based on International Holocaust Remembrance Day

The International Holocaust Remembrance Day is an international Memorial Day that commemorates the victims of Holocaust. It is celebrated on the 27th of January because, in 1945, the Auschwitz concentration camp was liberated by the Red Army. This day remembers the killing of six million Jews and millions of others.

All books are available on the Sora app. The books shown are about World War Two. All are pieces of fiction work, yet mainly based of historical knowledge of what happened to people's life's in WW2.

Nelson Mandela

Nelson Mandela was born on 18th of July 1918 to the royal tribe “Thembu tribe” in mvezo in the British South Africa.

His fathers name was Gadla Henry Mphakanyiswa Mandela and his mother’s name was nosekeni mandela. Mandela original name was Rolihlahla Mandela and he got the name Nelson from a teacher by the age of 7 he was a hardworking student and would go on to become a law major at the university of Fort Hare and the university of whitwaterstand. Afterwards he became a lawyer in Johannesburg during which he introduced himself to anti colonial and African nationalist movements.

In 1943 Mandela joined the ANC (African national congress party) and cofounder in the youth league in 1944. After the establishment of apartheid a system that promoted white supremacy and suppression of black people. ANC’s members including Mandela made it their life’s mission to overthrow the injustice. Mandela rose to the rank of president of the ANC receiving wide spread attention for his role in the 1952 defiance campaign and the 1955 congress of the people. Not surprisingly, he was becoming unpopular among the white only authority. In 1956 he was arrested for treason and served 5 years in prison. After being discharged in 1961 along with his ANC followers and the South African communist party Nelson co founded the militant group named uMkhonto we Sizwe “spear of the nation” and led an anti government sabotage campaign. Unfortunately he was re arrested in 1962 this time he was sentenced to life imprisonment for conspiring against the nation.

Mandela spent the next 27 years in prison transferred from robber island to pollsmoor prison and victor verster prison. During 18 years staying in robbed island him and his Conrads physically and verbally abused him by the white guards. Mandela eyesight was also permanently damaged due to having to work at the Lyme quarry without glasses. Non the less his influence as a human rights activist grew despite all the terrible conditions he had to endure in Robben island. Nelson rose to become a prominent figure amongst the ANC prisoners on the island and expanded his fear of influence beyond that joining a group representing all robben island’s political prisoners called Ulundi through which he built connections with two other activist groups the pan-Africanist congress and the Yu Chi Chan club. Later he initiated a movement called the University of robben island enabling prisoners to share their expert skills and knowledge with Nelson himself debated social political topics with his comrades. To the white guards that mistreated him he sort to understand them and convert them to his cause. In 1982 him and some other ANC figures would be transferred for the second confinement polls moor prison. The reason for this transfer was suspected to be the authorities fear of Nelsons rising prominence in robben island. Ironically his significance as a freedom fighter didn’t diminish because of that but grew more powerful during his stay there conditions of pollsmoor were better than robben island and Nelson got on well with the side commanding officer. Utilising his freedom of reading and correspondence he read and wrote tirelessly reaching out to not only the black unity but also people of other races. In the 1980s South Africa plunged into chaos due to socio economic break downs. Violence burst out across the country and many international banks withdrew investment from South Africa. Pressured by British prime minister magenta vankertet banker president van Klerk reluctantly offered to free Nelson from prison if he rejected violence as a political weapon showing no compromise he declined stating that the ANC would renounce violence if the government did the same this resulted in him being given solitary confinement which worsened his tuberculosis condition. In 1988 he was transferred to Victor Verster Prison and it was there that things changed for the better he was housed in the relative comfort of a ordered house and a personal cook and used the time to complete his bachelor of law degree. While there he was permitted many visitors and organised secret communications with the exiled ANC leader Oliver thembo. The new president of South Africa F.R Dan Klerk met in to discuss demolishing apartheid and had him released in 1990

In 1991 Nelson became president of the ANC and collaborated with F.R de Klerk to end the apartheid peacefully promising equal rights for everyone their fight for the peace of South Africa earned the pair the nobility peace prize in 1993 his tireless fighting for what’s right eventually payed off in the 1994 general election which granted the right to vote to all races in South Africa. The ANC won and Nelson Mandela became the first black president of the country. Now with the new role Nelson Mandela continued his fight for black peoples rights and issuing policies to improve the living standards and facilities of black South Africans. Seeking to relive them from the pain of decades in oppression. He extended his humanitarian policies to making South Africa a country of equality regardless of race or colour. In 1999 Nelson Mandela withdrew from politics but while he lived a quiet life in his final years he continued to be an icon of peace and equality world wide in the same year he retired Nelson founded the Nelson Mandela foundation an organisation that is dedicated to holding the principles of equality and peace. In South Africa he is often referred to as Madiba or referred to as the father of the nation his pass away in 2013 saddened the world and left many in tears but his status is a symbol of equality, peace and humanitarianism will stay forever.

Last week we had a visit from Army Careers Stoke who spent the afternoon with some of our Year 10s and 11s. They gained a lot from the session and now have some great ideas about their future in this field.

Miss Edwards and Mr Whitehead took some of our Year 10 pupils to Cheshire College this week for their Open Evening. The staff and the pupils really enjoyed the opportunity to visit and we were greeted by an ex pupil Matthew Wade. It was brilliant to see him doing so well.

World Cancer Day (4th February 2022)

Cells grow then divide by mitosis only when we need new ones – when we're growing or need to replace old or damaged cells. When a cell becomes cancerous, it begins to grow and divide uncontrollably. New cells are produced – even if the body does not need them. A group of cancerous cells produces a growth called a tumour.

What causes cancer?

There are genetic factors that increase the likelihood of developing some cancers. Chemicals and other agents that can cause cancer are called carcinogens. Carcinogens cause cancer by damaging DNA. Carcinogens cause mutations to occur. A single mutation will not cause cancer – several are required. For this reason, we are more likely to develop cancer as we get older.

Healthy wetlands store carbon and slow the flow of water, cleaning it naturally and reducing flood risk downstream. They support an abundance of plant life, which in turn provide perfect shelter, nurseries and breeding grounds for wildlife.
