Should trick or treating go ahead this year?

In some areas of the country local lockdowns already ask people not to meet with other households and rules are tightening in general at the moment. Some families might instead decide to celebrate Halloween at home, but for most families inviting friends round for parties will also be out, due to the rule of six.

Mr Freakley the science technician and Mr Daley both took part in the antibody test as part of a Covid-19 research study by Imperial College London. The test was very similar to the Chromatography experiment you do in Science!!!
