Interview with: Marc

What is your job title and role?

Hyperbaric Welder – Welding under water while in a breathable atmosphere (no water inside the habitat)

Who do you work for and what do they do?

I work for a large Oil services company specialising in all sorts of infrastructure management and infrastructure repairs. Design / Installation / maintenance.

What sorts of jobs are there in your organisation?

A very wide variety from literally unskilled labour to college and university graduates. Ranging from engineers to technicians, deck workers to divers, welders, mechanics, captains, cooks and cleaners. Surveyors, riggers, crane drivers. ROV (remote operating vehicle technicians). Life support technicians

How long have you been doing this job?

10 years

Why did you want to do it?

For the challenge of pushing my trade to the limit, if you are going to do welding you want to weld on Mars and to the best you can be.

What does a typical day look like?

Most days are different, there's a lot of preparation that goes into my job. There's a lot of repetition in some respects because you need to know your job inside out as much as possible so when you enter the water everyone knows their role and everyone knows exactly how to do it.

What's the best part of your job?

The feeling of a successful job, completing something you thought you couldn't do. Travelling – seeing different people and different cultures and being able to work with them.

What's the most challenging part of your job?

Time away from home.

How long did it take you to become a Hyperbaric Welder?

Started at 16 three years of training for welding, 4 years welding in a real-world environment to hone my craft and to increase my learning and wisdom in the field as well as gain some reputation. After that I trained for diving for a couple of years so that I could become a hyperbaric welder.

What courses / qualifications did you do?

SvQ Level 3 in Welding, HSE Closed Bell training (saturation Diving)

What courses / qualifications / options would you recommend to someone who wants to do that job?

They would need to be a pipeline welder and a HSE closed Bell Diver

Are there other similar or related careers that people can do?

On surface pipeline welding or other diving jobs – the possibilities of diving are endless

What advice would you give to someone about their learning?

Diving as a profession is about marrying diving with some other skill to become something special. For example, photography and diving really works well.

Your time is now don't wait – push hard and you will succeed if you want it aim for it and you shall succeed.

KS3 History tells us that in 1628, William Harvey published his theories on blood circulation and this later allowed the problem of bleeding to be dealt with and the first attempts at blood transfusions. Early blood transfusions often ended disastrously because blood groups had not been discovered, clotting could not yet be prevented and infection was rife. It was not until 1813 that transfusion was reintroduced into medical practice by James Blundell at Guy's Hospital and by 1873 Sir Thomas Smith's pioneering work on clotting made survival in surgery more likely.

GCSE Biology tells us that Blood is a tissue and that one of its jobs is to act as a huge transport system. Blood has four main components: Red Blood Cells, White Blood Cells, Plasma and Platelets.

2 Small Organs for Blood and Oxygen

Heart = 0.3 kg
3,000,000,000 beats

Lungs = 1.3 kg
16,000,000 liters pure oxygen

Perfect Harmony for 80 years of Life

"The Blood is the Life" is a short horror film from 2019. It was created to raise blood donation awareness. The artistic film is a cinematic journey depicting how blood connects all of us. The goal and vision for this film is to put emphasis on how blood is just as important to our bodies' survival as water.
